OVERVIEW

Courtney Hunter is an associate and a member of the Corporate practice. Courtney has experience in a wide range of corporate transactions, including private equity (primary and secondary buy outs, exits, bolt-on acquisitions and co-investments), private M&A, venture capital investments, joint ventures, secondary fundraisings and group restructurings and refinancings, as well as advising on a range of corporate governance matters. She has experience working on both the buy-side and sell-side, and has worked with clients across a range of sectors and jurisdictions.

She completed her training contract at the firm, during which time she gained experience in the Corporate, Mergers and Acquisitions, Asset Management and Investment Funds, White Collar Crime, and Construction and Infrastructure practice groups.

PROFESSIONAL BACKGROUND

Prior to joining the firm, Courtney was a summer intern in her local police's legal services department, followed by being offered a working role as a legal support assistant. In her roles, Courtney attended court hearings as a force representative, assisted with improving the sports and social club, handled civil claims against the force, made applications to the court for civil injunctions and orders, and created reports discussing legal implications for the police in given scenarios.

Courtney also served as a paralegal for a large London-based construction company, where she assisted with tracking developments in both contentious and non-contentious matters, reviewed and drafted legal and commercial documentation, prepared legal documents for site teams, was heavily involved in negotiations with subcontractors, and assisted in gathering evidence for adjudications and arbitrations.
