OVERVIEW

Maggie Cooney is a United States Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO) registered patent lawyer. She concentrates her practice in patent and trademark litigation.

Maggie's experience includes almost every stage of patent litigation, beginning with pre-suit investigations and continuing through discovery, claim construction, motion practice, and pre-trial preparations. Her experience also includes trademark litigation and addressing trade secret remediation for bankruptcy proceedings.

Maggie has advised clients in a variety of technical fields including Wi-Fi and Bluetooth technology, telecommunication systems, circuit bus technology, artificial intelligence, and bulk acoustic wave filter design.

PROFESSIONAL BACKGROUND

Maggie served as a summer associate prior to joining the firm as an associate.

Maggie gained experience as a student attorney at an entrepreneurship clinic. Her role involved filing several trademark applications and a statement of use for clients' trademarks, drafting corporate documents for intellectual property assignments, and advising clients on a variety of trademark and corporate legal issues. She also served as a legal intern at BitSight, where she analyzed international data protection laws.
