OVERVIEW

Tobias Kopp is counsel and a member of the Commercial Disputes and International Arbitration practice groups. He has 14 years of experience in commercial litigation, international arbitration and other forms of complex dispute resolution, often with a significant international dimension. After six years with the firm, Tobias moved to an inhouse position where he acted as litigation counsel for a Germany-based industrial portfolio company. In that role, he was tasked with coordinating and strategizing relevant litigation and arbitration in a large variety of jurisdictions. Three years of his inhouse career he spent working out of the company's regional headquarters in the United States where he focused on cross-border disputes and issues around multi jurisdictional taking of evidence. As Tobias returns to the firm, he continues to represent clients from a large variety of industry sectors to efficiently resolve disputes with suppliers, customers and competitors alongside corporate-related matters both in and out-of-court.
